Society

All over the State, indeed, all over the country, for the next several weeks, society will be chiefly concerned with the graduating of numbers and numbers of pretty daughters from schools and colleges everywhere. The "sweet girl graduate" has been the theme of song and story for a great period of time, and its only fitting and proper that she should have her place on the social calendar of each year's season, so far as society is concerned, so for the next few days and some of the weeks in June, busy mothers and fathers will turn aside from more complicated affairs of life to attend the commencement exercises of their children. Fashionable dressmakers have been kept crowded with work on the soft, pretty white gowns that will form such an important and interesting feature of the graduation, and the June bride's trousseau for the moment has been forgotten. The little daughters at school hold the center of the stage for a short while, at least.

The activities of the outdoor season are increasing, while the social ranks in town are being gradually depleted by the general exodus to the country and abroad. Some of the most promising outdoor festivities for the coming summer season are to be the open-air plays to be presented during each month at the Country Club similar to the one given there in the early part of this month. They will be charming and delightful affairs, and smart society will be largely represented at each performance.

Baseball is receiving fashionable attention these days, and the grandstand at the park has been the scene of some very interesting gatherings of the past several weeks. Informal supper parties follow at the clubs and hotels, and delightful affairs have been gotten up on several afternoons recently.

Concerning Mrs. Burnmeister, who has been teaching for the past winter as the head of the musical department in Pennsylvania, was of the moment for a short time last week as the guest of Mrs. Horace Wellford Jones, at 290 East Franklin Street. Mrs. Burnmeister went from Richmond to Charlotte, where she is contemplating the purchase of her grandfather's old home, "Gravel Hill," in that county. She expects to sail on June 19 on the steamship Victoria Louise of the Hamburg-American Line, for Germany, where, for many years, she made her home in Dresden. Later in the summer Mrs. Burnmeister will go to Italy and will also attend the Mozart Festival in Munich before returning to this country.

Returning to America in the fall, Mrs. Burnmeister will open her studio in New York City, where she has a large class of pupils, and will also continue her work at the College of Music in Pennsylvania. Mrs. Burnmeister has been heard in a number of charming recitals here in Richmond, and has a great many relatives and friends here.

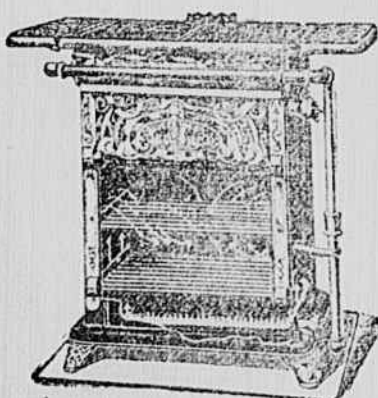

Mrs. George J. Bull, of Paris, France, formerly Miss Sue Caldwell, of Columbia, S. C., will give a talk on "Student Life in Paris" before the members of the Art Club of Richmond and their friends on Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Mrs. Bull is a charming and gifted woman and has spent many years in Paris, where she now makes her home. Before her marriage she frequently visited in Richmond, as the guest of her cousins, the Misses Wood-bridge, and has a great many friends in this city. Following Mrs. Bull's talk, tea will be served by the house committee.

An interesting feature of the Art Club session has now is the annual exhibition of students' work. The design class is very creditably represented and the other work is of a most superior order. This exhibition opened last Tuesday, and will be continued until June 1.

Alumnae Luncheon.

An interesting event of this week will be the alumnae luncheon of the Woman's College, of this city, on Saturday, May 31, at 2 o'clock, in the Jefferson Hotel. Mrs. Basil M. Gwatkins is chairman of the luncheon, and the guest of honor is to be Mrs. Kate Langley Boshier, who will give a toast, "The Girl of To-Day." The president of the alumnae association, Mrs. Ivez James Templeman, will welcome the graduating class, and Miss Mary Spencer

Miss Carroll to Wed.

Says a recent Baltimore exchange: Announcement has been made by Mrs. J. Howell Carroll, the engagement of her daughter, Miss Suzanne Carroll, to Major John Philip Hill, of this city.

The marriage will take place in June and will be a social event of much interest, not only here and in New York, but to many people in Europe, where Miss Carroll was educated and traveled extensively.

Miss Carroll is the daughter of the late J. Howell Carroll, who for several years was consul at Cadiz, Spain, and died at Mentone, on the Riviera. She belongs to one of the most distinguished families in America, being a great-granddaughter of Charles Carroll, of Carrollton. Through her mother, she is descended from the Rogers, Dulany and Graftons.

Mrs. Tucker Carroll, the grandmother of Miss Carroll, was one of the heroines and hostesses of her day and formerly lived at 2 West Franklin Street, but since her return from Europe has let the house, and for the last three winters, with her daughter-in-law and granddaughter, has had an apartment in New York.
